GIVE US A SQUIRE.-Mr. Josiah Turner takes a column or more in the Sentinel to deny that he was a candidate for the Superintendency of the R. & G. Railroad. Alas, in spite of his extreme honesty, we learn that he failed to receive a single vote for the place. In the confusion of tongues on the currency question the prohibition movement in Pennsylvania has been almost forgotten. The supporters of the temperance ticket are beginning to make themselves heard, however, and are holding meetings in various parts of the State. In its practicial effect the hibition movement is a tender to the Democratic ticket, although its supsincere belief that they are laying the foundations of a great political party. The following from the New York Herald of Wednesday will be read with interest by our readers, the most whom are sufficiently familiar with Father McNamara and his peculiarities to enjoy the huge joke he is perpetrating towards the "liberation of Ireland." Says the Herald : This is the age of sensations. About one year ago an organization was formed in this city of a Communistic nature by a man named Father Mc-Namara, who had at one time been a Lazarist priest, and who has also officiated as a clergyman of his own persuasion in Raleigh, North Caroina. It is said that, owing to some irregularities, the bishop of the dio-cese in which Father McNamara preached silenced him, depriving the elergyman of his functions, or, as it was styled in the latter half of the eighteenth century, the bishop had "unfrocked" him. Since then Father McNamara has devoted his attention chiefly to organizing revolutions in the cause of the Fatherhood of Na-tious and the Brotherhood of Man. The ex-reverend gentleman wears a long sack overcoat with a velvet col-lar; his yellow hair hangs down on his shoulders, his face is always clear shaven and his presence is a marked one whenever he appears in any of the streets of the city. THE REDIVIVI.

The organization formed by Father McNamara was called the Sacred Order of United Irishmen Redivivi, and had a number of lodges scattered throughout New York city with fearfully mystic titles. It was the design of Father McNamara to revive the which had correspondence with the Frence revolutionists of 1793. A number of earnest, fervent and en-thusiastic young Irishmen, not at all deterred by the prospectus of the association, which declared that Ireland could only be freed by a weekly subscription of twenty-five cents per man, joined the "Sacred Redivivi" and paid in their dues as became them. Each candidate was sworn secretly, his hands crossed over a asin of blood and with a large, sharp bladed axe depending from the ceiling directly over his head. It was a fearful scene that some of the candidates witnessed, and three or four became light-headed immediately after the terrible and ghostly inaugural ceremonies Ex-Father McNamara said even if the Pope and Kaiser Wil-helm opposed the movement, he alone would free Ireland. The organization increased rapidly until at one time the Redivivi numbered about 180 members in this city, all of who is proprietor of a store in Canal street. This man possessed some money, and it is said that he had negotiated for a harbor steam tug to proceed to Ireland with twenty minie muskets, calibre 1857, when Father McNamara stopped his proceedings. There was also a poet named Callinnan in the organization, who had for a non de plume, "Red Rain." THE MAN WHO IS TO DIE. Among the recruits obtained by ex-Father McNamara there was a young man named Thomas J. McGeoghegan, a well educated and good looking young gentleman of twenty-five years of age, who is now teaching chool in the Academy of the Christian Brothers in Brookivn. The pseudo-Father McNamara, who closely resembles a noted preacher in Brooklyn, having considerable conversational powers, did in some mancut of the party. Give us a Squire. of the articles exhibited. Particularly ner fascinate young McGeoghegan Redivivi. The young man had written for the press, and being largely gifted with imagination, he became one of the most earnest and zealous propagators of the revolutionary doctrines which the ex-priest had given his years to inculcate. The Redivivi generally met in Chatham street over a weekly newspaper office, and sometime a milk can full of blood would be conveyed from the 31th St. slaughter house, of which the Retion; a large number of horses had divivi would partake freely, and thus seal their vows of loyalty and heroism. But young McGeoghegan began to have doubts of the honesty as well as the practicability of the organization of the Redivivi to secure the liberty of Ireland through the instrumentality of ex-Father McNamara. Being of quick intelligence, to use a political phrase, he "kicked," yet he did not fail to subscribe his weekly 25 cents. It seems, however, that Mr. McGeoghegan is a very strict Roman Catholic and after some months connection with the Redivivi he began try on the occasion of the annual ex- to have conscientious doubts as to whether he should continue to be a member or not. Having as a Catho most agreeable crowd, the prettiest lie to do what is known as the "jubiladies and a general assemblage of lee," he was informed by the clergypeople more on pleasure bent than man under whose ministrations he sat that he could not receive absolution unless he immediately left the The occasion is used as an annual Redivivi. Mr. McGeoghegan, feeling hollday, and right well is it enjoyed. that he ought to be certain of the matter and knowing that he would be sentenced to death if he were to become a traitor to the Redvivi, consulted two other clergyman and they informed him of the spiritual penalties to be enforced should be continue as a Redivivist. Now came the agony and Mr. McGeoghegan found him between two fires. He felt that he would have to endure the pains of hell fire if he were to remain in the Redivivi, but should he dare to leave it he knew that the organization would have him shot as a traitor to the cause of Ireland. The young patriot decided immediately, and mine resigning my position as a member of the Redivivi. As Father McNamara and his adherents have both publicly and privately slandered me, and attributed base and unworthy motives to me on account of my resignation, I feel it due to myself and to my countrymen to make a public statement of the facts and to expose an organization that is an imposition, as can easily be recognized from the substance of his letter.

At the solicitation of Father Mc-Namara, I joined the Redivivi, believing it to be an organization solely got up for the purpose of liberating Ireland. I soon found out my mis-take, for instead of being a truly national organization, it proved to be a despotic combination under the guid-ance of Father McNamara, having solely in view the pecuniary object of fleecing my confiding countrymen for the maintenance of a few unprincipled men. As an Irishman, a Christian and a Catholic, I found I could not conscientiously continue a member of it. In performing my jubilee duties I consulted my confessor, and he peremptorily ordered me to withdraw from "such dangerous and villait.ous organization." Acting on this advice. I sent in my resignation, and in reply received the annexed letter from the Rev. Father McNam-

I did not intend to give it publicity had he not personally assailed me on the Hamilton ferryboat and abused me in a most insulting manner, and had not he and his adherents spread reports derogatory to my character as a Christian, a patriot and a man.

I appeal to an impartial public as to whether I am justified in my actions or not, and publish his letter, so that they may judge of the blasphemous nature of the Redivivi and its foundament. its founders.
Well, I must conclude by saying that the only tribute I intend to pay in future to such a person is the tri-bute of my silence—I had almost said silent contempt; but I shall never hold the "cloth" in contempt, even though the wearer be debarred from the sanctuary. Yours respectfully, THOMAS J. McGEOGHEGAN.

THE SENTENCE OF DEATH.

However incredible it may seem to the citizens of New York who live in a civilized and Christian community and are supposed to obey the laws under which they exist, the "National Chief" of the Redivivi on receipt of the letter called a council of the mysterious organization, which met, as it was alleged, by summons of a dag-ger and cord delivered to each of the members of the "supreme and extra-ordinary council," for so they are called. The number "seven" has always had mystic powers, and the "Council of Seven" met on the 7th of October, at the hotel kept by O'Donovan Rossa, in Chatham square. The proprietor of the hotel knew nothing of the purpose of the seven men who called on him, headed by McNamara, and he readily allowed them to engage a room. Six of the men were partially disguised about 180 members in this city, all of whom were paying subscribers. One a room up-stairs after ordering some of the chief and most deadly conspi- ginger beer, and locked the door so that no one should enter. except those present can tell wha happened in the room; yet, incredi-ble as it may seem, one of the seven, under the solemn obligation of secret oaths was deputed to kill Thomas J. McGeoghegan wherever found, no matter if it were in a church, as a Order of the Redivivi. Our reporter discovered last evening that the name sentence of death on the unfortunate McGeoghegan is James Walsh, who is a bottler of champagne and be longed formerly to the firm of Walsh & Peel, but when not otherwise engaged is a pedler of maps. Mr. Me-Geoghegan called last evening at the HERALD office and declared that he was not a traitor to Ireland, but that owing to his honest religious belief he had to resign his membership in the Redivivi. He seemed a little fright-ened, and declared that he did not He seemed a little frightvivi might do if they were excited. McNamara addressed the following letter to Mr. McGeoghegan in reply to his letter of resignation, and from its tone of concentrated fury some idea may be got of what will occur when the deputed Walsh meets Mo-Geoghegan:

THE THREATENING LETTER. Thos. McGeoghegan, Esq.: SIR—Through some mistake yours of the 16th inst. reached me only this morning. I have carefully noted the my reply. You are, of course, free to withdraw yourself from attendance on the meetings of the Order, as you would be at liberty to absent yourself from any other honorable b had no power to physically coerce you; but you have no power to withdraw from the Redivivi the allegiance you have sworn to that body for patriotic purposes. And no priest on earth has any power to ex-onerate you from the obligations you have there entered into and the reas is because the Redivivi Association is simply a patriotic body; our obligations are simply those of Irish patriotism and from these no priest or bishop or Pope has any power to exonerate you. Nay, God himself could not absolve you, because God could not make a traitor. Either you are a patriot or you are a traitor. There is no middle ground. A priest can give you no warrant to swerve from patriotism and become a traitor. Without saying more on this point, I will merely say I am astonished at he suddenesss of your converstion. Your extreme piety is of very recent birth. I remember several expressions of yours wherein you conveyed the idea that such dictation as you allude to could have no force against your conviction of a man's right But there's no accounting for men's convictions except—well let it re-main unsaid. I am exceedingly sorry to peruse such a letter as this from you, I had given you credit for somehing better. I was even laying out for you some patriotic work that would suit your talents. Yet slas, poor Ireland! But be assured I do not wish to grieve you. I must honestly tell you however that you have no power to withdraw the allegiance o appear before that body as so was written at the peril of Mr. Mc-Geoghegan's life and is as follows:
"AVE, M'NAMARA, MONTURI, TE SALUTANT."

In vindication of my character and honor both as an Irishman and a christian, I am compelled to give publicity to the annexed letter of Father McNamara in reply to one of PRICE: FIVE CENTS.

do not wish to see you stamped as a slave. a coward, or a traitor. Choose your course and take the consequence. Yours, &c. Father McNamara.
National President O. U. I. R., Post Office box 3,607. CAN THE DISTRICT ATTOKNEY INTER-

A HERALD reporter called at the District Attorney's office yesterday to know what steps would be taken by that official in case that McNamara should attempt to carry out his in-sane threat of executing the unfortu-nate McGeoghegan. Mr. Phelps was at the time busily engaged in trying Dolan for the murder of Mr. Noe and could not be seen, but the officials in the District Attorney's office informed the reporter that the laws would protect Mr. McGeoghe-gan from the murderous attempts of the man McNamara, if he would apply in time for such protection. The "National Chief" McNamara met "National Chie?" McNamara met Mr. McGeoghegan in a Hamilton ferry boat a few nights since and after abusing him in a savage way, solemnly sentenced him to be shot to death by James Walsh. The latter individual bought a Smith & Wesson seven-shooter last Saturday evening and is supposed to wreak vengeance on the fated McGeoghegan, and it is quite possible that inside of fortyeight hours our citizens may be startled by the news of a dreadful startled by the news of a dreadful murder. The "chief," McNamara, was yesterday seen on Tryon row and other public places armed with a blud geon, and on being appealed to for mercy stated very resolutely that he saw no reason to reverse the sentence pronounced, and that McGeoghegan must die at set of sun.

The following is thrown out as a gratuitous hint for machinists: A rench machinist has discovered that, by keeping his turning tools constantly wetted with petroleum, he was able to cut metals and alloys with them, although when the tools were used without the oil, the edges were soon turned and dulled. The hardest tools can be turned easily if the tools be thus wet with the mixture of two parts of petroleum with one part of turpentine.

ENFERBLING PURSUITS - Nature intend-ENFREBLING PURSUITS—Nature intended that we should use our legs freely, and revenges herself upon those who constantly sit at their faily avocations indoors by depriving them of that robust health which usually falls to the share of those who labor on foot in the open air, and very frequently inflicts uron them diseases and premature infirmities which they might have avoided by a more active life. Persons who become enfeebled in consequence of sedentary habits or occupations cannot do better than to resort to a course of Host tetter's Stomach Bitters as a means of recovering lost strength. Nor should they postpone a recourse to this supreme toate and preventive of physical decay longer than is absolutely necessary, as weakness than is absolutely necessary, as weakness is too often the precursor of disease. The litters are also invaluable as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, latermittent fever, urinary and rheumatic complaints, oc 23-dawlw

THE BALTIMORE ELECTION.

Onr telegraphic dispatches failed to bring us any account of the election in Baltimore to which attention had been directed with much interest. Thursday's Gazette, however, brings us the tidings of a Democratic victory. Ferdinand C. Latrobe is elected Mayor by a majority exceeding 2,700 in a total vote of 53.000-the largest vote ever cast in Baltimore. The Democrats have also a substantial majority in Conncil on joint ballot. The contest in Baltimore was much complicated by various issues, and a multiplicity of candidates and the Democratic victory is therefore considered a decided triumph.

The Gazette thinks the voice of Baltimore expressed the sentiments of the State on the question of party supremacy and says on Thursday next John Lee Carroll will be overwhelmingly endorsed by the voters of Maryland.

FATHER MACNAMARA.

We publish on our first page an article from the New York Herald. chronicling some of the doings of this eccentric individual. They are so extravagant that we might almost believe that it was a broad burlesque. Yet, the conduct of the Reverend gentleman, while residing here, was sufficiently extravagant to authorize the expectation of almost any absurdity from him. It was going a little too far, perhaps, to see him in the light of a law-giver, assuming the prerogatives of the Holy Voehme and with the symbol of cord and dagger, issuing his secret mandates of death against a traitor to a secret brotherhood. This is where the Herald reporter places him. We leave it to our reader to attach just as much credit to the report as he

THE National Republican "rejoiceth" at the conviction of Col. John A. Joyce, one of the most prominent Whisky Ring thieves in St. Louis. The Republican rejoices with a wry mouth, for the honesty force upon his party is not at all congenial. But for Bristow, all this rascality would have gone on over the hotels, and establishments undisturbed and undiscovered, or as large as the Metropolitan are ununder any other man than him, der female government, with all the would have received from the President the same countenance and protection that was extended to Boss Shepherd, Delano, and all the Custom House thieves of New York.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC. We publish elsewhere from the New Orleans Times an excellent article on this subject. We are glad to see prominent Southern journals aking steps to counteract a movement so prejudicial to our interests, and which in fact, so far as connection with the Pacific coast is concerned, is faral to all our expectations, for Scott's plans once carried out, there is an end to all possibility of the South having any lot or part in the matter. His control over the road will be complete, and the North will then have absolute command of the trans-continental routes, with the ports of the South forever cut off from any participation whatever in the benefits thereof.

The article in the Times fully sustains the views taken by us and by the Richmond and Petersburg papers. These views seem founded upon common sense, and upon the well known character of a man whose motive is self or sectional aggrandizement, ready to assume any garb, and to appear in the light of unselfish generosity, and liberal appreciation of the wants of the South, to carry out plans the most ruinous to its best interests.

As usual, the bile of the National Republican is stirred at the honor paid to Stonewall Jackson at Richmond. Could not that journal for once forget its malignity, and at least be quiet? Officers of the Federal army who had contended on the field with Jackson did not feel their honor or their loyalty compromised by uniting in this last grand ceremonial to his honor. The colored man, the emancipated slave, to whom Jackson might have appeared as the exponent of a hated system, cherished no bitterness, but crowded with affectionate eagerness to add their tribute of respect. The Republican alone croaks. It asks "in what other country could such public honors have been paid to a man who, thirteen years ago, was the leader of armed hes s engaged in rebellion against the ON SACRAMENTAL CONFES- lawful government of the country." Is it not time that these questions should cease? Is the South forever to have its obligations to the government thrust upon it, and reminded of the magnanimity of the nation? True magnanimity would be silent in recalling its deeds. It would, like charity, refrain from vaunting itself. It would admit some degree of faith and honor in the subject of its benefits. And it would accord to the and brutal work, but with no avail man nature, and among them, the privilege of cherishing the memories of their glorious dead, representatives of a cause forever lost, of principles that will never die so long as the instincts of freedom survive.

ENGLISH CUSTOMS.

A writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal gives a lucid, humorous and somewhat caustic review of the contrasts between English habits as applied to public transactions, and those of this country. The stubborn pertinacity with which John Bull sticks to ancient usages, and his invincible obstinacy against changes of any sort, does credit to his consistent conservatism, but not to his intelligence. There is something highly respectable in that reverence for those customs and those things which time has hallowed and which experience has approved, and the dread of innovation is perhaps one of the best securities for the perpetuity of institutions.

But there is such a thing as a rational submission to a changed order of things. New agents have taken their part in the conduct of the world's affairs. Steam has thrown open the doors of England to the world. She is no longer the "fast anchored isle" locked up from external access, and left to the undisturbed enjoyment of her own customs. She has become, in all essentials, an integral part of the great family of na ons, and as such is bound by a certain comity to conform herself to universal custom.

But she holds on with stupid obstinacy to the usages and traditions of the past. She adheres to customs better honored in the breach than in the observance. She clings to forms, which, in their inception, were without experience to frame them, but which subsequent experience has neither changed nor modified. Take the hotel system, for instance. Tradition clings fondly to the memory of Dame Quickly and her cosy that Secretary Bristow is trying to inn. The English system therefore considers it indispensable that landladies, not landlords, should preside petty annoyances of such a government. The railroad system is worse. The old stage coach, endeared by the memories of two centuries, could not be abandoned, and when the road had to give way to the rail, the coach was lifted bodily on the trucks, and there it stands to this day without change of form, or increase of convenience, except that three coaches are united end to end. The authorities stoutly oppose the American system, though the case of Co'. Baker has raised a warm interest on the subject. animals

Again in regard to baggage. The American system of checks is perfeet, and would seem to commend itself to universal adoption, because it ensures almost absolute safety to the baggage and relieves the traveler of all trouble. But the Euglish will not adopt it. Every man must take care of his own, and there is something absolutely terrifying in the ides of the struggle to take care of one's baggage in the countless throngs that surround an English railway station.

These and other subjects we might notice, but we have cited enough to show that John Bull, with all his admitted superiority in most particulars, has much yet to learn in the practical conveniencies of life. He is far behind the "blarsted fore'gner" in appreciation of the demands of the age.

Correspondence New York Herald. Killed by His Uncle—A Thrilling Tragedy—An Uncle Stabs His Nephew Through the Breast and is Lodged in Prison.

ARCHIBALD, PA., Oct. 19, 1875. This usually quiet mountain town is in a fever of fervid excitement over a thrilling tragedy which has just taken place here, and in which a young man named Anthony Scanlon was slain, having been stabbed to the heart, it is alleged, by his uncle, Michael Nolan. The latter was arrested this morning and brought before a Justice of the Peace, who committed him to the county prison to await trial. Nolan has for some time past kept a saloon in the centre of the town, and to this rendezvous three of his nephews-to wit, Anthony, Michael and Peter Scanlon, all your men, repaired last night. They had not been there long when a dispute arose between themselves and another party in the bar-room, and this so aggravated their uncle, the inn-keeper, that he threatened to have them arrested at once, unless they de sisted, They paid no attention, however, and seeing this, Nolan became quite exasperated, and proceeded to put them out. In front of the saloen the Scanlons turned on him, knocked him down and kicked him, and at juncture another nephew, whose name is Tubill, arrived on the scene and brandishing a knife, swore f they did not leave off beating his uncle be would have their lives Noan then rose to his feet when a fierce fight with dirk knives ensued, the ontestants striking wildly about them in their drunken desperation. The scene was truly terrible and baffles description. Women ran screaming into the street and begged of the men to desist their butcherous bloody onslaught Anthony Scanlon received a shocking thrust of a knite through the left breast, the blade penetrating the lung and making a ortal wound. He sank slowly and died to day in great agony. His brother Peter Scanlon was stabbed in the cheek and on the back below the right shoulder. His wounds were sewed up and are not expected to prove fatal. Michael Nolan who has een arrested for the stabbing is about forty years of age, and brother to

BUTTERICK BUSTED-SAD NEWS FOR THE LADIES.-There will be more rning among the feminine porion of the community over Butterick "busted," than ninety and nine Duncan & Shermans. It was to Butterick that a large class of the community, given to dress-making, betook themselves when origin I in-spiration failed. For five or more years the Bible has been a less con-stant guide than these cheap suggestions to good fit. From the terns" sent out from the New York house, the frugal financier of the family found hints for the re-making of the father's old garments into new and inviting shapes for the men-children of the flock, while for the girls, the mother's finery for generations back provided a perfect treasure house of grandeur. The house did s wonderful business if usefulness is a sign of merit. They deserve a better fate than going to the dogs, as the telegraph announced. The failure is a mystery, unless it be that having educated the country sufficiently, there is no longer a demand for patterns, each housekeeper feeling equal to being their own Butterick.—N. Y. From the New Orleans T'mes. Tem Scott and His Pacific Railroad. We republish in another column, from the New York Graphic, a full description, by sections, of the proposed route of the Texas Pacific railroad. The account, with map, occupics a full page. It is evidently an advertisement, and for this reason is more significant than an ordinary review would be, because it is official and authoritaative. Another pige of the Graphic contains a map of the United States, showing the Pennsylvania railroad and its connections. Another page contains a large por-trait of Mr. Tom Scott. Three pages of the paper are thus devoted to Mr. Scott, his present belongings and his future designs. The maps, descriptions, etc., may be relied on as officia'; that is to say, they indicate, in an unmistakable manner, Mr. Scott's views and wishes with respect to a new Pacific railroad. The astute speculator does not usually herald his purposes to the world, but, in this ense, it is necessary to impress the public, and, by that means Congress, with the public necessity of this enterprise and in order that no ideas inconsistent with his general plan may get abroad, this carefully prepared and anony-mous, but yet sufficiently recognizable, prospectus is published. We should not be astonished, indeed we are not astonished that Mr. Scott's views and wishes, with reference to this enterprise, correspond, with great precision, with Mr. Scott's interests. We do not, of course, censure this shrewd person for his devotion to his own interests, but we do feel warranted in protesting against his twisting the national character of the work into a mere supplement to his private and ambitious monopolizing schemes. The Southern Pacific Railroad should be sustained and furthered by the united South, but in this it will be well enough to remember that, so far as Mr. Tom Scott is a part of it, he would regard the shriveling up and destruction of all that portion of the universe not neces-

to sustain Mr. Tom Scott and his connections, with happy unconcern. The light of this undisputed fact illuminates the maps accompanying Mr. Scott's prospectus quite vividly. The "Pennsylvania Rail-road and its connections" exhibit the central and main s'em of that road, extending in nearly a straight line from New York to St. Louis. The description, it will be seen, lays stress on the route from St. Louis stress on the route from St. Louis via Vinita, in the Indian Territory and Fort Worth, and is mainly devoted (in a large part, which we have no room for) to writing up those points and points west f them. A glance at the map shows this to be an important link in a fairly direct line between the Atlanie and Pacific, a line, to wit: from New York to San Francisco via St. Louis, Vinka, Fort Worth and San This is the Pacific railroad Diego. This is the Pacific railroad desired by Mr. Tom Scott, and is not a Southern Pacific railroad at all. It is not even a Central Pacific railroad, but a Northern Pacific, running in competition with and having imporfic-just what Mr. Scott's ambition is reaching for. This route passes far to the north and west of the South and does not give us the westward outlet and relief we need. Yet plainly, Mr. Scott desires to use the de-mand for this outlet from the South, and the manifest justice of giving to us a moiety of the public aid, hereto-fore extended to the North, as a mor-I force to secure Government aid for his trunk line, but he has no more intention of building or helping to build a Southern Pacific railroad vanquished some of the rights of hu- until their fiendish spirits were sati- than he has of paying our State debt. Therefore look Tom Scott, aforesaid. If he can get Government aid and apportion it according to his views, his trunk line will be constructed, but we will be left to shift for ourselves. If we can. by our own exertions, tap bis trunk line, he will not mind that, we can use it on his terms. If we cannot strike it, why we can flounder where we are. Mr. Tom Scott's engines will roll from San Diego to St. Louis, and thence on over the "Pennsylvania railroad and its connections." South wants a railroad stretching through her own territory from the Atlantic to the Pacific, between the two nearest deep harbors on each coast. But Mr. Scott does not want such a road, because it would deduct immensely from the amount of the haut" over the Pennsylvania railroad and its connections. One of

Mr. Scott's maps makes some showing of a line across by Monroe (La. and Vicksburg to Savannah, but this is evidently intended to mollify Southern eyes and distract attention from his all-important "Atlantic and Pacific" link; while Southern Louisiana and New Orleans are left ignominiously out of consideration entirely. Nothing is plainer than that Mr. Scott intends to flank the whole South with this Atlantic and Pacific link, between St. Louis and Fort Worth. It is not our business to quarrel with Mr. Scott for desiring to help himself, but it is our business to see to it that he does not use our necessities and our rights to further his own selfish and cold-blooded purpos ses at the expense of our interests.

ATLANTA, Oct. 29.-In the United States Court this morning, Hon. Judge Wood presiding, in the case of Welmer and others, first mortgage bond-holders, against the Atlanta & Richmond Air-Line Railroad Con pany, his Honor decides in favor of the plaintiffs, and decrees that the Trustees shall sell the entire property. The first mortgage amounts to $4,248,000, the bonds being held principally in New York city and Baltimore, Md. The accrued interest unpaid to date is about $700,000. The road extends from Atlanta, Georgia to Charlotte, North Carolina, distance of two hundred and sixtyfive miles.

Carlist Victory.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Carlist Committee in this city have published the following: The Carlist General Perula gained an important victory at Lumbier, in Navarre, on the 22ud inst., routing a force of Alfouzists consisting of 30 battallions of infantry, 3 regiments of cavalry and 36 guns. The Carlist force consisted of 5 battallions of infantry, 2 squadrons cavalry and 8 guns. The Alfonzist losses are heavy. According to the Alfonzists accounts, however, the main body of Carlists attacked Gen. Renis' position at Lumbier, but they were easily repulsed.

The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a

Crews of three Vessels Eaten by Cannibals. NEW YORK, Oct. 29.-A morning paper publishes a Boston dispatch which states that a vessel recently returned from a voyage around the world, fell in at one of the ports visited with a sailor or some knew him who states that the barks Jewess and Delia M. Long and an unknown English bark were becalmed in the vicinity of the Auckland Islands and were board at night by Cannibals who scuttled the vessels and ate the crews except this one survivor. This statement however, is thought here to be a cancal—the supposition being that the ressels perished in a typhoon.
